Miller Environmental Group, Inc. adds a Treatment, Storage, and Disposal Facility (TSDF) to its operations while continuing to expand in Northern New Jersey with a new Operation Center

Miller Environmental Group, Inc. (MEG), headquartered in Calverton, NY has expanded its Operations to include a Non-Hazardous TSDF Operation. The TSDF will allow MEG to better serve its client base for a number of non-hazardous solid and liquid waste streams” commented Mark Miller, Owner and CEO of MEG. The TSDF purchase, officially named MEG Water Works, completes a very strategic search that now allows MEG to control and improve logistics for its customers. The Facility is centrally located in the Northeastern US in New York’s Hudson Valley at the intersection of Interstates 87 and 84 in Newburgh, NY. The MEG Water Works Facility has substantial capacity to handle both liquid and solid wastes as it is located on an 11-acre parcel. “The expansion opportunities for MEG;s Water Works will propel our overall business and enhance our service abilities well into the future.” mentioned, George Wallace, VP and Chief Commercial Officer.

Additionally, the company continues to expand its geographic reach opening a new Operation Center in Northern New Jersey located at 311 East Blackwell Street, Dover, NJ 07801. This Operation Center will service the growing client demand for Environmental and Industrial Cleaning services. The Operation Center will reduce response time and more thoroughly cover the New Jersey/New York Metro territory. “We carefully selected this location for its proximity to our customer base as well as the logistical synergies associated with managing waste for our customers.” said, Jerry Coogan, VP of Operations. MEG will grow to offer the entire suite of services to its customers in the region including Emergency Spill Response, Industrial Cleaning, Environmental Remediation, Waste Transportation, Disposal, Health & Safety Training, and Marine Support services.
